Business Update—ECU Worldwide (Singapore) PTE. LTD.

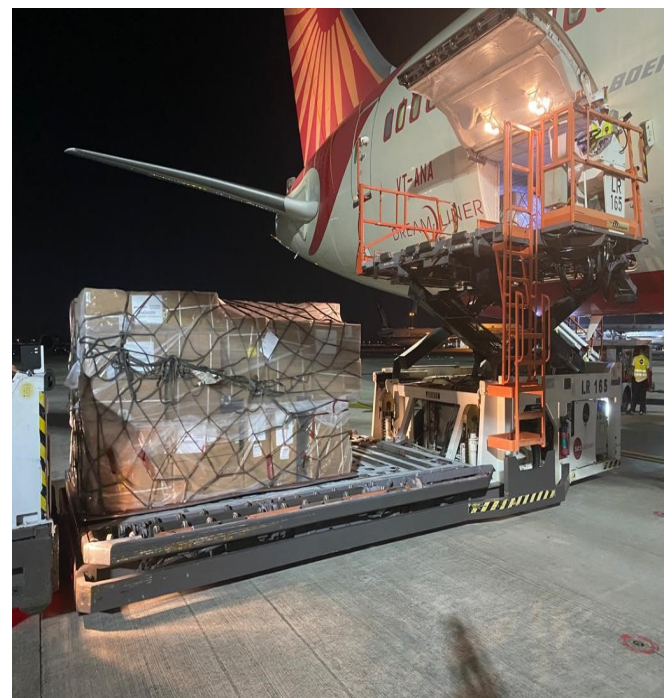

I am honoured to lead and execute this charity (FOC) project from Singapore, facilitated by my organisation, where we are here to help our fellow Indians in every way possible during this turmoil.

With medical equipment being the need of the hour, we are humbled that we are able to help by shipping 500 oxygen concentrators by air from Singapore to the Maharashtra government. Let's all come together and help those in need and give our best bit for the social cause .First batch implemented and accomplished successfully with my team .

Brussels Airport continues to grow strongly in Cargo volumes

Air cargo continues to grow strongly with an increase in volumes carried of no less than 40% in March compared to March 2020 and 27% by March 2019.

Full cargo traffic grew strongly again (+73%), and this growth could be observed for all existing airlines. The growth in express services (+65%) is due to the effect observed in 2021 of the extra routes added by DHL Express in 2020 and the increase in demand for e-commerce shipments. Trucked freight is also up by 43%.

The total cargo volume processed by the Brussels Airport cargo platform rose by 41% compared with March 2020, reaching 74,000 tones. Import and export volumes increased, especially for the Asian and North American regions. Brussels Airport also remains an important hub for the import and export of Covid vaccines.

Business Update—Herco Freight, USA

Much More Than Just Warehousing

Value added services aim to reduce time-to-market, lower costs and increase responsiveness and productivity. At Herco Freight that is no different. Our team put together various value-added services for different categories. To fulfill each customer’s needs and meet demands we offer a variety of beneficial services to help expand business and improved services.

Our warehousing value add services include inventory, fulfillment, packing, labeling and distribution. These services have shown significant benefits, especially for e-commerce. Our team’s preparedness and sharp skills are critical for the success your operation and growth of your business.

We strongly believe that offering basic services is no longer enough. Our team has carefully studied the market and planned these value-added services to go above each customer’s expectations. Organization, time management, responsibility, tenacity, efficiency, passionate leaders and empowered employees are just some of the many qualities our team is made up of. Additional services include, but are not limited to, IBEC, inventory control, hazmat cargo handling and temperature control. IBEC (consolidating multiple inbound and domestic cargo) can not only ease of use but can also help you save on freight. Inventory control can help reduce the risk of overselling, avoid stick-outs and excess stock, improve business negotiations, greater cost savings, better product visibility and many more benefits. Hazmat cargo handling has been a key factor in handling cargo that is more diverse. Our experience handling hazmat cargo has avoided the burden of vetting, loss of time, wrong paper work and our team is available in case emergency arises. This has not been different then handling temperature controlled cargo.

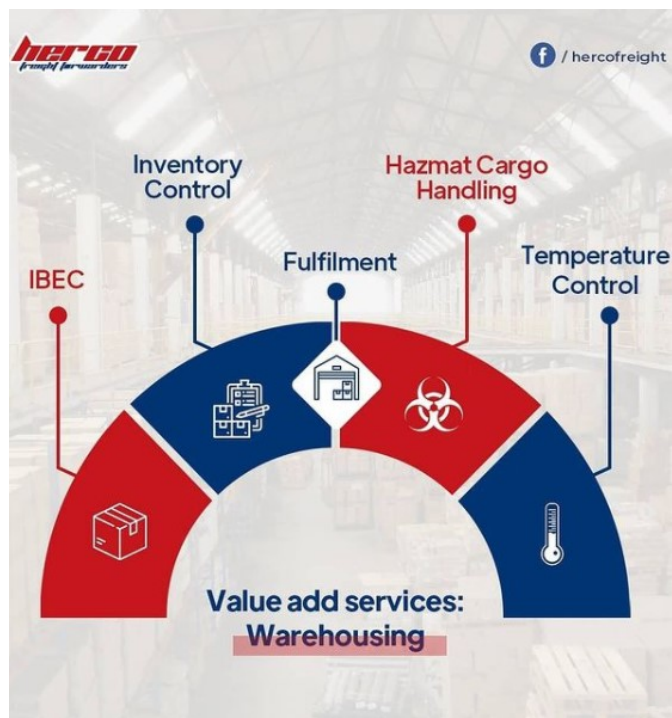

Our team has proudly participated in handling many vaccine shipments worldwide to combat the global pandemic.

Business update—Takelog Logstica, Brazil

As AEO agent we have the responsibility to really care about the whole logistic chain.

As example, consider the internal transportation. Our drivers have a regular procedure to check both container and vehicle before any loading and right after the delivery to customs warehouse.

This will secure that the cargo will be safe from eventual modifications during transportation.

Our drivers inspect 7 points of the container and 12 points considering vehicle and container.

You may count on us for your export demands here.

Business Update— Premiere Logistics, China

Scarce capacity in both air and ocean helped China-Europe rail volumes to huge gains last year, up 56%, to 1.14m teu and 12,400 train journeys. And in January and February, they were up 96% year on year, with volumes of 209,000 teu, according to Chinese media.

According to Shanghai-based Marco Reichel, APAC business development director at Crane Worldwide Logistics, space on trains to Europe was already tight before the week-long Suez blockage.

He told The Loadstar: “We already had limited space in late March, and for the whole of April, and we now expect capacity to stay almost sold out until May.” The very tight capacity has pushed many clients to also look for alternatives, such as road freight from China to Europe.

Post-Ever Given: A Sudden Surge for China-Europe Railway Services

Rob Foster, business development manager for central and north China at Norman Global Logistics, said the Suez crisis had “not helped” with regards to rail freight space and creeping congestion issues.

Container shortages are continuing, thanks to port congestion at Los Angeles, he noted and, with the Suez delay and knock-on effects expected to play out for weeks, there’s a major lack of empty containers coming back to China to replenish stocks

Forwarders in China are reporting a sudden spike in demand for Silk Road rail freight, post-Ever Given

Mr Foster said there were only minor delays on the railway network currently, with the main bottlenecks being three-to-six-day delayed departures from some origin points in China. For example, he explains, the country’s railway terminals are not as advanced as the container ports, in terms of customs checks.

“The rail carriers have to do a lot of commodity code checks because of the cargo crossing different borders, and some cargo is not permitted due to the wording of the codes; it only takes one container to get held at the border to delay a whole blocktrain.”
