Industry Update— WINDLOG, BRAZIL

Do you know how to export to Brazil?

Cintia Albino, Commercial Manager at Windlog, informed that the success of a good export to Brazil is in the choice of the Brazilian agent partner.

“Windlog has served partners around the world for over 17 years, and effectively, we guide our partners to adapt to the applications of Brazilian legislation. In addition to taking care of the agency, we are Customs Brokers. We can take care of the door-to-door process and provide security for importers and exporters. For example, Brazilian laws do not allow foreign companies to pay import taxes. Therefore, it is impossible to use the Incoterm DDP to export to Brazil.” concludes Cintia Albino.

If your country has a trade agreement with Brazil, issuing a Certificate of Origin is essential. This way, the importer will obtain a reduction or exemption from taxes applied in Brazil.

Do you know how to export to Brazil?

According to legislation in Brazil, the customs authorities will not allow packages (packing cases, boxes, crates, reels, drums, and similar packings, pallets, box pallets, and other load boards, pallet collars) with wooden material that is not treated and certified, note that each volume must have the ht stamp. All the BL/AWB must contain the following information: wooden packing: treated and insured or wooden packing: processed wood or wooden filler: not applicable (it means that there is no wood in the filling); if it were not followed, the penalty would be the returning of the shipment and all costs involved payment.

If you have other questions about the Brazilian market, Windlog is at your disposal to answer any questions by e-mail: contato@windlog.com.br

Hong Kong extends linear shipping block exemption

By Marcus Hand

Hong Kong's Competition Commission has renewed a block exemption for vessel sharing agreements (VSAs) between liner shipping companies for another four years.

The Competition Commission said that the terms of the block exemption set out in 2017 would now remain in place until 8 August 2026.

The original order had been due to expire on 8 August this year and over the last year the commission has conducted review of the block exemption.

“The Commission has come to the conclusion that the relevant activities of the VSAs continue to meet the requirements of the efficiency exclusion,” the Commission said.

While the original order lasted for five years an extension has only been granted for four years.

“This is in light of the continuing impact of the Covid-19 pandemic on the prevailing market conditions which warrants a review of the Order within a shorter time frame,” the Commission said.

Record rises in container freight rates and delays to shipments have placed the liner shipping industry under scrutiny with accusations from shippers of excess profiteering and monopolistic actions by the sector.

The Hong Kong Competition Commission will commence its next review of the order in three-year time.
